

No. 19-1614

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT

MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF BALTIMORE,
Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

ALEX M. AZAR II, in his official capacity as Secretary of the U.S.
Department of Health & Human Services, et al.,

Defendants-Appellants.

On Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Maryland

MOTION BY THE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF OBSTETRICIANS AND GYNECOLOGISTS, AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PEDIATRICS,
AMERICAN COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS, SOCIETY FOR ADOLESCENT
HEALTH AND MEDICINE, AND SOCIETY FOR MATERNAL-FETAL MEDICINE FOR LEAVE TO FILE BRIEF OF AMICI CURIAE IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF-APPELLEE AND AFFIRMANCE

Thomas N. Bulleit
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600
tom.bulleit@ropesgray.com
douglas.hallward-driemeier
@ropesgray.com

Lisa H. Bebchick
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1211 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036-8704
(212) 596-9000
lisa.bebchick@ropesgray.com

Attorneys for Amici Curiae

(SEE SIGNATURE BLOCK FOR FULL LIST OF ATTORNEYS)

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 29(a)(3) and Fourth Circuit Local Rule 29(a)(3), the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (“ACOG”), American Academy of Pediatrics (“AAP”), American College of Physicians (“ACP”), Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine (“SAHM”), and Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine (“SMFM”) (collectively, “Amici”) respectfully seek leave of the Court to file the proposed brief of amici curiae (the “Brief”), submitted concurrently with this motion, in support of Plaintiff-Appellee and affirmance of the district court’s preliminary injunction in this case.

Amici are leading health professional organizations that share the common goal of improving health for all by, among other things, ensuring access to high-quality healthcare that is comprehensive and evidence-based.

Amici are gravely concerned about the real-life implications of the Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”) regulation, entitled “Compliance with Statutory Program Integrity Requirements” (the “Final Rule”), which adopts a view of patient care that is contrary to well-established principles of medical practice and ethics. Amici have a strong interest in the disposition of this case because the Final Rule places medical providers in a precarious and ethically compromised position by forcing them to subvert the needs of their patients to the directives of the Final Rule.

Amici seek leave to file the proposed amicus brief to provide the Court with their unique perspective as health professional organizations. Courts, including the United States Supreme Court, frequently rely on submissions by Amici as authoritative sources of medical information on issues concerning reproductive healthcare.¹

The Brief will assist the Court in evaluating the district court's preliminary injunction. Amici are leading authorities on reproductive healthcare, family planning services, and rules of ethical conduct for medical professionals, and can provide the collective judgment of physicians as to the established understanding of the terms "nondirective" and "pregnancy counseling" in the medical field and support for the proposition that well-established and evidence-based standards of healthcare services recommend nondirective pregnancy counseling as an essential component of healthcare. Amici are directly involved in the provision of healthcare and, as such, have unique insight into the critical importance of this care, as well as the risks posed by restrictions on providers' ability to provide such care. Given their specialized knowledge and perspective, Amici believe that the Brief will be helpful to the Court as it considers the district court's preliminary injunction.

¹ See, e.g., Whole Woman's Health v. Hellerstedt, 136 S. Ct. 2292, 2312, 2315 (2016) (citing amicus brief submitted by ACOG, AAP and other health professional organizations in reviewing clinical and privileging requirements); Burwell v. Hobby Lobby Stores, Inc., 573 U.S. 682, 761 (2014) (Ginsburg, J. dissenting) (citing amicus brief submitted by ACOG and other health professional organizations in its discussion of how contraceptive coverage helps safeguard the health of women for whom pregnancy may be hazardous); Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914, 932–36 (2000) (quoting ACOG's amicus brief extensively and referring to ACOG as among the "significant medical authority" supporting the comparative safety of the healthcare procedure at issue); Planned Parenthood Ariz., Inc. v. Humble, 753 F.3d 905, 916–17 (9th Cir. 2014) (citing brief submitted by amici ACOG and other medical organizations in further support of a particular medical regimen), cert. denied, 135 S. Ct. 870, 190 (2014); Stuart v. Camnitz, 774 F.3d 238, 251–52, 254–55 (4th Cir. 2014) (citing ACOG's amicus brief and committee opinion in its discussion of informed consent); Planned Parenthood of Wis., Inc. v. Van Hollen, 738 F.3d 786, 790 (7th Cir. 2013) (citing ACOG's amicus brief in evaluating the relative safety of abortion and other outpatient procedures); Greenville Women's Clinic v. Bryant, 222 F.3d 157, 168 (4th Cir. 2000) (extensively discussing ACOG's guidelines and describing those guidelines as "commonly used and relied upon by obstetricians and gynecologists nationwide to determine the standard and the appropriate level of care for their patients").

Amici are not affiliated with the parties in this case, and the views and analysis provided herein and in the accompanying Brief are their own. No party's counsel authored the Brief in whole or in part; no party or party's counsel contributed money intended to fund the Brief's preparation or submission; and no person other than amici and their counsel contributed money intended to be used to fund the Brief's preparation or submission.

Pursuant to Local Rule 27(a), counsel for Plaintiff-Appellee and counsel for Defendants-Appellants have consented to this motion and the filing of the Brief.

WHEREFORE, Amici respectfully request that the Court grant this motion for leave to file the proposed brief of amici curiae submitted herewith.

(Signature page follows)

Date: August 5, 2019

Ropes & Gray LLP

Lisa H. Bebchick
Catherine J. Djang
Amy W. Malone
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1211 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036-8704
(212) 596-9000
lisa.bebchick@ropesgray.com
catherine.djang@ropesgray.com
amy.malone@ropesgray.com

Daniel W. Richards
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1900 University Avenue, 6th Floor
East Palo Alto, CA 94303
(650) 617-4000
daniel.richards@ropesgray.com

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Thomas N. Bulleit
Andrew J. Sutton
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600
douglas.hallward-driemeier@ropesgray.com
tom.bulleit@ropesgray.com
andrew.sutton@ropesgray.com

Haley Eagon
ROPES & GRAY LLP
Prudential Tower
800 Boylston Street
Boston, MA 02199-3600
(617) 951-7000
haley.eagon@ropesgray.com

*Counsel to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Physicians, Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine, and Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine
as Amici Curiae*

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on the 5th day of August, 2019, I electronically filed the foregoing with the Clerk of the Court for the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit using the appellate CM/ECF system.

Counsel for all parties to the case are registered CM/ECF users and will be served by the appellate CM/ECF system.

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE

The undersigned certifies that this motion complies with the type-volume limitation of Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 27(d)(2). The motion contains 754 words, excluding the parts of the motion exempted by Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 27(d)(2) and Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 32(f). Pursuant to Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 27(d)(1)(E), this motion complies with the typeface requirements of Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 32(a)(5) and the type style requirements of Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 32(a)(6). The motion has been prepared in a proportionally spaced typeface using Microsoft Word 2016 in Times New Roman 14-point font.

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600

No. 19-1614

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT

MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF BALTIMORE,
Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

ALEX M. AZAR II, in his official capacity as Secretary of the U.S.
Department of Health & Human Services, et al.,

Defendants-Appellants.

On Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Maryland

BRIEF OF AMICI CURIAE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF OBSTETRICIANS AND GYNECOLOGISTS, AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PEDIATRICS,
AMERICAN COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS, SOCIETY FOR ADOLESCENT
HEALTH AND MEDICINE, AND SOCIETY FOR MATERNAL-FETAL MEDICINE IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF-APPELLEE AND AFFIRMANCE

Thomas N. Bulleit
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600
tom.bulleit@ropesgray.com
douglas.hallward-driemeier
@ropesgray.com

Lisa H. Bebchick
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1211 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036-8704
(212) 596-9000
lisa.bebchick@ropesgray.com

Attorneys for Amici Curiae

(SEE SIGNATURE BLOCK FOR FULL LIST OF ATTORNEYS)

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT
DISCLOSURE OF CORPORATE AFFILIATIONS AND OTHER INTERESTS

Disclosures must be filed on behalf of all parties to a civil, agency, bankruptcy or mandamus case, except that a disclosure statement is not required from the United States, from an indigent party, or from a state or local government in a pro se case. In mandamus cases arising from a civil or bankruptcy action, all parties to the action in the district court are considered parties to the mandamus case.

Corporate defendants in a criminal or post-conviction case and corporate amici curiae are required to file disclosure statements.

If counsel is not a registered ECF filer and does not intend to file documents other than the required disclosure statement, counsel may file the disclosure statement in paper rather than electronic form. Counsel has a continuing duty to update this information.

No. 19-1614 Caption: Mayor and City Council of Baltimore v. Alex M. Azar II

Pursuant to FRAP 26.1 and Local Rule 26.1,

American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, American Academy of Pediatrics, American (name of party/amicus)

College of Physicians, Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine, and Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine

who is _____ amici _____, makes the following disclosure:
(appellant/appellee/petitioner/respondent/amicus/intervenor)

1. Is party/amicus a publicly held corporation or other publicly held entity? YES NO
2. Does party/amicus have any parent corporations? YES NO
If yes, identify all parent corporations, including all generations of parent corporations:
3. Is 10% or more of the stock of a party/amicus owned by a publicly held corporation or other publicly held entity? YES NO
If yes, identify all such owners:

4. Is there any other publicly held corporation or other publicly held entity that has a direct financial interest in the outcome of the litigation (Local Rule 26.1(a)(2)(B))? YES NO
If yes, identify entity and nature of interest:

5. Is party a trade association? (amici curiae do not complete this question) YES NO
If yes, identify any publicly held member whose stock or equity value could be affected substantially by the outcome of the proceeding or whose claims the trade association is pursuing in a representative capacity, or state that there is no such member:

6. Does this case arise out of a bankruptcy proceeding? YES NO
If yes, identify any trustee and the members of any creditors' committee:

Signature: /s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier

Date: 8/5/2019

Counsel for: Amici Curiae

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that on 8/5/2019 the foregoing document was served on all parties or their counsel of record through the CM/ECF system if they are registered users or, if they are not, by serving a true and correct copy at the addresses listed below:

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
(signature)

8/5/2019
(date)

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
TABLE OF AUTHORITIES	ii
INTERESTS OF AMICI CURIAE	1
INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT	4
ARGUMENT	6
I. HHS Asserts a Flawed Understanding of Patient Counseling that Is Contrary to Well-Established Principles of Medical Practice and Ethics	6
A. HHS Incorrectly Assumes that Referral Is Not Part of Counseling.....	6
1. The Final Rule Is at Odds with Well-Established Guidance for Clinical Practice	7
2. The Final Rule Is at Odds with Well-Established Principles of Medical Ethics	9
B. HHS Incorrectly Claims that a Prohibition on Referral for Abortion and a Mandated Referral to Prenatal Health Care for Patients Seeking to Terminate a Pregnancy Are “Nondirective”	11
II. Absent an Injunction, the Final Rule Will Cause Irreparable Harm	16
CONCLUSION.....	19

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

	Page(s)
Cases
Fairfield Cty. Med. Ass’n v. United Healthcare of New England , 985 F. Supp. 2d 262 (D. Conn. 2013).....	17
State of New York v. Schweiker , 557 F. Supp. 354 (S.D.N.Y. 1983)	17
Statutes & Regulations
Compliance with Statutory Program Integrity Requirements, 84 Fed. Reg. 7,714 (Mar. 4, 2019).....	13, 14
Department of Defense and Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 115-245, 132 Stat. 2981 (2018).....	6
Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996, Pub. L. No. 104-134, 110 Stat. 1321 (1996)	6
Other Authorities
AAFP, America Needs More Family Doctors: 25x2030 , https://www.aafp.org/about/initiatives/family-doctor-expansion.html (last visited June 29, 2019)	18
AAP, Comm. on Bioethics, Policy Statement—Physician Refusal to Provide Information or Treatment on the Basis of Claims of Conscience , 124 Pediatrics 1689 (2009)	11
ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics (2018).....	9, 10, 12, 16
ACOG, Comm. On Adolescent Health Care, Opinion No. 699: Adolescent Pregnancy, Contraception, and Sexual Activity , 129 Obstetrics & Gynecology 142 (2017).....	18
ACOG, Comm. on Adolescent Health Care, Opinion No. 710: Counseling Adolescents About Contraception , 123 Obstetrics & Gynecology 389 (2017)	8

ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 297: Nonmedical Use of Obstetric Ultrasonography , 104 Obstetrics & Gynecology 423 (2004)	16
ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 385: The Limits of Conscientious Refusal in Reproductive Medicine , 110 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1203 (2007; reaffirmed 2016)	10
ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 439: Informed Consent , 114 Obstetrics & Gynecology 401 (2009; reaffirmed 2015).....	10, 14
ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 528: Adoption , 119 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1320 (2012; reaffirmed 2018)	10
ACOG, Comm. on Ethics and Comm. on Genetics, Opinion No. 410: Ethical Issues in Genetic Testing , 111 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1495 (2008; reaffirmed 2014)	7
ACOG, Comm. on Health Care for Underserved Women, Opinion No. 615: Access to Contraception , 125 Obstetrics & Gynecology 250 (2015; reaffirmed 2017).....	18
ACOG, FAQ 168: Pregnancy Choices: Raising the Baby, Adoption, and Abortion (2013).....	14
ACOG, Guidelines for Women’s Health Care: A Resource Manual (4th ed. 2014).....	12, 14, 15
ACOG, Position Statement: Counseling Patients with Zika Infection (2013)	9
AMA, Code of Medical Ethics: Principles of Medical Ethics (2016).....	9, 10
AMA, Code of Medical Ethics Opinion 1.2.3 (2016)	11, 14, 16
AMA, Code of Medical Ethics Opinion 2.1.1 (2016)	15
Christina Fowler et al., Office of Population Affairs, Title X Family Planning Annual Report: 2017 National Summary (Aug. 2018).....	19
Eileen Stellefson Myers, Nutrition Counseling for Patients with Prediabetes or Diabetes , Pharmacy Times (Oct. 27, 2016).....	7

Katherine E. Simmonds & Frances E. Likis, Providing Options Counseling for Women with Unintended Pregnancies , 34 J. Obstetric, Gynecologic, & Neonatal Nursing 373 (2005)	8, 12
Kinsey Hasstedt, Unbiased Information on and Referral for All Pregnancy Options Are Essential to Informed Consent in Reproductive Health Care , 21 Guttmacher Pol’y Rev. 1 (2018)	10, 12, 14
Laurie L. Hornberger & AAP Comm. on Adolescence, Options Counseling for the Pregnant Adolescent Patient , 140 Pediatrics 1 (2017)	8
Stephen M. Petterson et al., Projecting US Primary Care Physician Workforce Needs: 2010-2025 , 10 Annals Fam. Med. 503 (2012)	18
Stephen Petterson et al., Robert Graham Center, The State of Primary Care in the United States: A Chartbook of Facts and Statistics (2018)	18
Stephen Petterson et al., Robert Graham Center, The State of Primary Care Physician Workforce (2019)	18
Tim Dall et al., Complexities of Physician Supply and Demand: Projections from 2017 to 2032 (2019).....	18
William F. Rayburn, ACOG, The Obstetrician-Gynecologist Workforce in the United States (2017).....	18
Xiao Xu et al., The Effect of Medical Malpractice Liability on Rate of Referrals Received by Specialist Physicians , 8 Health Econ. Pol’y Law 453 (2013).....	7

INTERESTS OF *AMICI CURIAE*¹

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (“ACOG”), the American Academy of Pediatrics (“AAP”), the American College of Physicians (“ACP”), the Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine (“SAHM”), and the Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine (“SMFM”) (collectively, “Amici”) submit this amici curiae brief in support of Plaintiff-Appellee. Amici share the common goal of ensuring access to high-quality reproductive health care that is comprehensive, ethical, and evidence-based.

ACOG is the nation’s leading group of physicians providing health care for women. With more than 58,000 members—representing more than 90% of all obstetrician–gynecologists in the United States—ACOG advocates for quality health care for women, maintains the highest standards of clinical practice and continuing education of its members, promotes patient education, and increases awareness among its members and the public of the changing issues facing women’s health care. ACOG is committed to ensuring access to the full spectrum of evidence-based quality reproductive health care for all women. ACOG believes that the full array of clinical services should be available to women without costly delays or the imposition of cultural, geographic, financial, or legal barriers. ACOG members care for women of all socioeconomic backgrounds, including low-income women and adolescents who rely on Title X funded projects for their care. ACOG has previously appeared as amicus curiae in various courts throughout the country, including the United States Supreme Court. In addition, ACOG's work has been cited by numerous courts seeking authoritative medical data regarding childbirth and abortion.

¹ All parties consented to the filing of this amicus brief. No party’s counsel in this case authored this brief in whole or in part. No party or party’s counsel contributed any money intended to fund preparing or submitting this brief. No person, other than amici, their members, or their counsel contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting this brief.

AAP is a non-profit professional organization founded in 1930 dedicated to the health, safety, and well-being of infants, children, adolescents, and young adults. Its membership is comprised of 67,000 primary care pediatricians, pediatric medical subspecialists, and pediatric surgical specialists. AAP has become a powerful voice for child and adolescent health through education, research, advocacy, and the provision of expert advice. AAP has worked with the federal and state governments, health care providers, and parents on behalf of America's families to ensure the availability of safe and effective reproductive health services.

ACP is the largest medical specialty organization in the United States with members in more than 145 countries worldwide. ACP membership includes 154,000 internal medicine physicians (internists), related subspecialists, and medical students. Internal medicine physicians are specialists who apply scientific knowledge and clinical expertise to the diagnosis, treatment, and compassionate care of adults across the spectrum from health to complex illness.

SAHM, founded in 1968, is a non-profit multidisciplinary professional society committed to the promotion of health, well-being, and equity for all adolescents and young adults by supporting adolescent health and medicine professionals through the advancement of clinical practice, care delivery, research, advocacy, and professional development. It strives to empower its 1,200 members who are professionals and trainees in medicine, nursing, research, psychology, public health, social work, nutrition, education, and law from a variety of settings. Through education, research, clinical services and advocacy activities, SAHM enhances public and professional awareness of adolescent health issues among families, educators, policy makers, youth-serving organizations, students in the field as well as other health professionals around the world. SAHM continues to advocate on behalf of all adolescents and young adults both on federal and state government levels for the availability of safe and effective reproductive health services.

SMFM, founded in 1977, is the medical professional society for obstetricians who have additional training in the area of high-risk, complicated pregnancies. Representing over 4,000 members who care for high-risk pregnant women, SMFM supports the clinical practice of maternal-fetal medicine by providing education, promoting research, and engaging in advocacy to reduce disparities and optimize the health of high-risk pregnant women and their babies. SMFM and its members are dedicated to optimizing maternal and child outcomes and ensuring that medically appropriate treatment options are available. SMFM has advocated at the state and federal level to ensure that high-risk women have access to high-quality, preventive health care and family planning services prior to pregnancy to improve maternal and infant health outcomes.

INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

Amici are leading medical societies whose ethical codes, policies, and guidance represent the collective judgment of the physicians and other medical providers in the United States. Amici respectfully submit this brief in support of Plaintiffs-Appellees and affirmance of the District Court’s May 30, 2019 Opinion and Order in Mayor and City Council of Baltimore v. Azar (“Preliminary Injunction Order”).² Plaintiff-Appellee has comprehensively briefed this Court on the history of the Title X program and its critical importance to low-income and uninsured patients. Amici submit this brief to directly highlight for the Court the ways in which the regulation promulgated by the Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”), entitled “Compliance with Statutory Program Integrity

² No. 19-cv-01103-RDB (D. Md. May 30, 2019).

Requirements” (the “Final Rule”) conflicts with the ethical duties that medical providers owe their patients.

Amici write to express the medical community’s grave concerns regarding the Final Rule. HHS asserts a fundamentally misguided view of patient counseling that is contrary to well-established principles of medical practice and ethics for at least two key reasons. First, HHS incorrectly assumes that referral is not part of counseling.³ As commonly understood by medical practitioners and in daily medical practice, counseling patients may include and, in some cases, must include, providing referrals. Well-established medical ethical principles not only recognize referrals as part of counseling, but impose obligations on practitioners to provide patients with appropriate and necessary health care, including information about their treatment options and referrals. Second, HHS incorrectly claims that restrictions on referral for abortion and mandated referral to prenatal counseling for a patient expressing a desire to terminate her pregnancy are not “directive.”⁴ This argument is flawed. It twists the meaning of non-directive counseling and ignores clear principles of medical ethics.

The Final Rule places medical providers in a precarious and ethically compromised position by forcing them to subvert the needs of their patients to the ³ HHS’s Opening Br. 24-26.

⁴ Id. at 28-29.

directives of the Final Rule. Amici urge the Court to affirm the Preliminary Injunction Order to prevent harm to people who depend on Title X clinics for critical reproductive health care. In the absence of an injunction, patient care available to individuals who rely on Title X will be severely compromised and some providers will stop providing care altogether, given the Rule's ethically infirm directives. The result will be devastating to the particularly vulnerable patient populations who rely on Title X for health care.

ARGUMENT

I. HHS Asserts a Flawed Understanding of Patient Counseling that Is Contrary to Well-Established Principles of Medical Practice and Ethics

A. HHS Incorrectly Assumes that Referral Is Not Part of Counseling

Amici disagree with HHS's arguments regarding the statutory provision that requires "all pregnancy counseling shall be nondirective," which has been legislated by Congress in each HHS appropriations act since 1996.⁵ HHS argues that the "nondirective provision is limited to 'pregnancy counseling,' a term that does not apply to referrals."⁶ This assumption underlying HHS's position—that counseling and referral are distinct—is fundamentally at odds with medical guidance for clinical practice and longstanding principles of medical ethics.

⁵ Department of Defense and Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 115-245, 132 Stat. 2981, 3070-71 (2018); see also, e.g., Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996, Pub. L. No. 104-134, 110 Stat. 1321, 1321-22 (1996).

⁶ HHS's Opening Br. 24.

1. The Final Rule Is at Odds with Well-Established Guidance for Clinical Practice

Guidance for counseling patients, published by leading authorities on the provision of health care and routinely referenced by clinicians in a range of medical specialties, recognizes that referrals are an integral part of patient counseling.

Counseling throughout the medical field is understood to encompass necessary referrals. For example, consistent with medical ethics, a patient diagnosed with a genetic susceptibility to cancer should be offered counseling, including referral to a specialist.⁷ Proper counseling of a patient diagnosed with diabetes should include a referral to a registered dietician nutritionist.⁸ In all areas of medicine, appropriate referrals are an inextricable part of the counseling relationship between a patient and his or her care provider. Indeed, delay or failure to refer a patient for appropriate treatment is a common ground for medical malpractice claims.⁹ The need for a referral and an understanding of what may be appropriate treatment for a particular patient are part and parcel of patient counseling, and HHS's divergent claim is inconsistent with basic principles of medical practice and guidance.

⁷ ACOG, Comm. on Ethics and Comm. on Genetics, Opinion No. 410: Ethical Issues in Genetic Testing, 111 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1495, 1495 (2008; reaffirmed 2014) (the patient “should be offered counseling and follow-up, with referral as appropriate, to ensure delivery of care consistent with current standards”).

⁸ Eileen Stellefson Myers, Nutrition Counseling for Patients with Prediabetes or Diabetes, Pharmacy Times (Oct. 27, 2016).

⁹ Xiao Xu et al., The Effect of Medical Malpractice Liability on Rate of Referrals Received by Specialist Physicians, 8 Health Econ. Pol’y Law 453, 454 (2013) (“failure or delay in referral are among the reasons most cited for medical negligence claims in the United States”).

In the reproductive health context, counseling patients in any number of situations may require referral. In the context of contraception counseling, for example, a clinician counseling a patient may find it necessary to refer the patient to another provider for care. This is also the case in the context of counseling regarding fertility, pregnancy, and health conditions one may experience during pregnancy, among others.

Indeed, clinical guidance on counseling instructs clinicians to refer patients when necessary, illustrating that referral is an integral part of patient counseling. As AAP plainly states, "Counseling includes . . . referring the adolescent to appropriate resources and services."¹⁰ See also, e.g., Katherine E. Simmonds & Frances E. Likis, Providing Options Counseling for Women with Unintended Pregnancies, 34 J. Obstetric, Gynecologic, & Neonatal Nursing 373, 375 (2005) ("comprehensive, respectful pregnancy options counseling . . . may require that the nurse refer patients to a colleague or to a different setting entirely");¹¹ ACOG, Comm. on Adolescent Health Care, Opinion No. 710: Counseling Adolescents

¹⁰ Laurie L. Hornberger & AAP Comm. on Adolescence, Options Counseling for the Pregnant Adolescent Patient, 140 Pediatrics 1, 1 (2017) (emphasis added).

¹¹ Unless otherwise indicated, all emphasis is added.

About Contraception, 123 Obstetrics & Gynecology 389, 392 (2017) (“Obstetrician–gynecologists have the duty to refer patients in a timely manner to other health care providers if they do not feel that they can provide the standard reproductive services that their patients request.”); ACOG, Position Statement: Counseling Patients with Zika Infection (2016) (when counseling a pregnant patient diagnosed with the Zika virus, which causes an increased likelihood of life-threatening birth defects, a physician must be prepared to refer patients to abortion care). Put plainly, in the reproductive counseling context, clinicians understand, and good clinical practice dictates, that counseling includes referrals. HHS’s view of the two as separate is inconsistent with reality and clinical guidance.

2. The Final Rule Is at Odds with Well-Established Principles of Medical Ethics

Leading authorities on medical ethics and rules of ethical conduct for medical professionals, such as the AMA’s Code of Medical Ethics and ACOG’s Code of Professional Ethics, codify medical providers’ ethical duties and unequivocally state that providers have a duty to refer when appropriate.¹² ACOG’s Code of Professional Ethics states that providers have an ethical duty, to both the patient and to the medical community, to “exercise all reasonable means ¹² AMA’s Code states its principles are “standards of conduct that define the essentials of honorable behavior for the physician.” AMA, Code of Medical Ethics: Principles of Medical Ethics 1 (2016). Noncompliance with ACOG’s Code of Professional Ethics “may affect an individual’s initial or continuing Fellowship in [ACOG].” ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics 1 (2018).

to ensure that the most appropriate care is provided to the patient,” including by “refer[ring]” a patient to “other physicians, health care professionals, and institutions to the extent necessary to serve the best interests of their patients.”¹³ Similarly, the AMA Code of Medical Ethics states that “[a] physician shall . . . make relevant information available to patients . . . obtain consultation, and use the talents of other health professionals when indicated.”¹⁴ ACOG’s Committee Opinions also routinely require physicians to make appropriate referrals.¹⁵ These medical authorities confirm the ethical duty to refer patients is an integral component of patient counseling.

This ethical duty to make appropriate and timely referrals is part of medical providers’ broader ethical duties to ensure a patient’s welfare, respect patient

¹³ ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics at 2-3.

¹⁴ AMA, Code of Medical Ethics: Principles of Medical Ethics at 1.

¹⁵ See ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 439: Informed Consent, 114 Obstetrics & Gynecology 401, 407 (2009; reaffirmed 2015) (“[P]hysicians must provide the patient with accurate and unbiased information about her medical options and make appropriate referrals.”); ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 528: Adoption, 119 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1320, 1322 (2012; reaffirmed 2018) (“Physicians often may best fulfill their obligations to patients through referral to other professionals who have the appropriate skills and expertise.”); ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 385: The Limits of Conscientious Refusal in Reproductive Medicine, 110 Obstetrics & Gynecology 1203, 1203 (2007; reaffirmed 2016) (describing “duty to refer patients in a timely manner to other providers if [providers] do not feel that they can in conscience provide the standard reproductive services that their patients requests”). See also Kinsey Hasstedt, Unbiased Information on and Referral for All Pregnancy Options Are Essential to Informed Consent in Reproductive Health Care, 21 Guttmacher Pol’y Rev. 1, 1 (2018) (“The guidelines of a number of leading professional medical organizations specifically address the need for comprehensive, unbiased information on and referral for all of a woman’s pregnancy options—parenting, adoption or abortion—as a fundamental component of a patient’s right to self-determination.”).

autonomy, provide a patient with truthful information sufficient for informed consent, and do no harm. As the AMA has affirmed, “referring patients to other professionals to provide care” is part of a physician’s obligation to promote patients’ best interests and wellbeing.¹⁶ In other words, when a referral would serve a patient’s best interests, that referral is a required component of the patient-physician relationship. The duty to refer also stems from the duty to provide patients with information sufficient for informed consent, as patients may need to be referred to another provider to obtain complete information about all relevant options.¹⁷ For these reasons, a provider’s duty to refer is part of bedrock medical ethical principles. Because clinicians cannot separate their duty to refer from their provision of counseling, the Court should reject HHS’s faulty argument that referral is separate from counseling and affirm the lower court on this issue.

B. HHS Incorrectly Claims that a Prohibition on Referral for Abortion and a Mandated Referral to Prenatal Health Care for Patients Seeking to Terminate a Pregnancy Are “Nondirective”

The Final Rule improperly promotes directive pregnancy counseling by prohibiting referrals for abortion and mandating referrals for prenatal health care

¹⁶ AMA, Code of Medical Ethics Opinion 1.2.3 (2016).

¹⁷ AAP, Comm. on Bioethics, Policy Statement—Physician Refusal to Provide Information or Treatment on the Basis of Claims of Conscience, 124 Pediatrics 1689, 1689 (2009) (“As part of informed consent, physicians also have a duty to inform their patients of all relevant and legally available treatment options, including options to which they object. They have a moral obligation to refer patients to other health care professionals who are willing to provide those services when failing to do so would cause harm to the patient.”).

regardless of a patient's expressed need. The essential feature of nondirective pregnancy counseling, as required by Congress, is that it is necessarily patient-directed. Nondirective counseling thus requires that the patient be fully informed about the appropriate courses of care relevant to the patient's particular situation and expressed needs.¹⁸

Nondirective counseling is tailored to the patient's expressed needs. In cases where a pregnant patient is ambivalent about her pregnancy, nondirective counseling requires that she be informed in a balanced manner about all pregnancy options that are relevant to her expressed needs.¹⁹ This may require that a provider inform a patient "about all options, including raising the child herself, placing the child for adoption, and abortion."²⁰ Such nondirective pregnancy counseling accords with a provider's ethical duties to maintain a trusting patient-physician relationship and obtain informed consent.²¹ In situations where a pregnant patient ¹⁸ See, e.g., Hasstedt, 21 Guttmacher Pol'y Rev. at 1; ACOG, Guidelines for Women's Health Care: A Resource Manual 345, 719 (4th ed. 2014); Katherine E. Simmonds & Frances E. Likis, Providing Options Counseling for Women with Unintended Pregnancies, 34 J. Obstetric, Gynecologic, & Neonatal Nursing 373, 375 (2005) ("Although the woman may make a decision that is different from what the nurse wishes or believes best, upholding patient autonomy is paramount.").

¹⁹ Hasstedt, 21 Guttmacher Pol'y Rev. at 1 (physician should provide "complete, medically accurate, and unbiased information and resources for all [of a patient's] pregnancy options.").

²⁰ ACOG, Guidelines for Women's Health Care at 719; ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics at 2.

²¹ ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics at 2 (a provider should serve as the "patient's advocate" and "exercise all reasonable means to ensure the most appropriate care is provided to the patient.").

intends to carry her pregnancy to term, she should be provided information about how to promote a healthy pregnancy and referred for prenatal care. In situations where a patient desires to terminate her pregnancy, she should be provided information about abortion and referred for care consistent with her expressed wishes. Contrary to the statutory mandate of nondirective counseling, the Final Rule's requirement that a clinician refer a patient who is not seeking to carry a pregnancy to term for prenatal care requires that the clinician direct the patient to a course of treatment.²² Additionally, the Final Rule's restrictions on providing abortion counseling or clear referrals to abortion providers are directive.²³

As understood by the medical community, nondirective pregnancy counseling enables patient choice through the provision of information tailored to the patient's expressed needs and conditions. It is unethical for medical professionals to provide therapies that are medically unnecessary and of no benefit to the patient; a patient should only be referred to a health care professional who will be able to provide the services the patient seeks or requires.²⁴ Prenatal care is not medically indicated when a patient plans to terminate her pregnancy—it is recommended only when a patient plans to continue her pregnancy.²⁵

²² Preliminary Injunction Order at 20; Compliance with Statutory Program Integrity Requirements, 84 Fed. Reg. 7,714, 7,789 (Mar. 4, 2019) (to be codified at 42 C.F.R. § 59.14(b)(1)) (“once a client served by a Title X project is medically verified as pregnant, she shall be referred to a health care provider for medically necessary prenatal health care”).

²³ Under the Final Rule, “a Title X project may not . . . refer for . . . abortion as a method of family planning, nor take any other affirmative action to assist a patient to secure such an abortion.” 84 Fed. Reg. at 7,788-89 (to be codified at 42 C.F.R. § 59.14(a)). HHS itself characterizes the Final Rule as amounting to a “prohibition on abortion referrals.” HHS’s Opening Br. at 23. The Final Rule also limits abortion counseling by requiring that the provider may not “encourage,” “promote,” “support” or “advocate” “abortion as a method of family planning.” 84 Fed. Reg. 7,788-89 (to be codified at 42 C.F.R. §§ 59.5(a)(5), 59.14(a), 59.16).

The Final Rule’s requirement that a pregnant patient in all cases “shall be” referred to prenatal care, and may be provided with only limited abortion counseling, regardless of the patient’s wishes, is not “nondirective.”²⁶ If a pregnant patient walks into a medical clinic and informs her provider that she is considering obtaining an abortion, she trusts that her provider will give her objective, balanced information. Under the Final Rule, however, the patient will instead be referred to prenatal care.²⁷ When the patient expressly asks for a referral for an abortion, the Final Rule allows the provider to give a list of referrals, but the majority of providers on this list cannot provide abortions, and neither the list nor the provider can delineate which of the providers on that list, if any, actually offer the needed care.²⁸ The provider is thus prevented from giving the patient full ²⁴ ACOG, Informed Consent at 7; AMA, Code of Medical Ethics Opinion 1.2.3.

²⁵ See, e.g., JA246 (Kimelman Decl. ¶ 9) (“Prenatal care is not a medically indicated or appropriate course of care for a patient who intends to terminate her pregnancy.”); ACOG, FAQ 168: Pregnancy Choices: Raising the Baby, Adoption, and Abortion (2013) (“If you choose to raise the baby or give the baby up for adoption, it is best to begin prenatal care as soon as you can.”).

²⁶ 84 Fed. Reg. at 7,788-89 (to be codified at 42 C.F.R. §§ 59.14(a), 59.14(b)(1)); Hasstedt, 21 Guttmacher Pol’y Rev. at 1; ACOG, Guidelines for Women’s Health Care at 719.

²⁷ See, e.g., 84 Fed. Reg. at 7,730, 7,748.

²⁸ Id. at 7,789 (to be codified at 42 C.F.R. §§ 59.14(c)(2), 59.14(e)(3)).

information about appropriate courses of treatment.²⁹ This is directive care based on the government's directive: regardless of the patient's interests, she will not be given the information she seeks, and instead will be referred to prenatal care.³⁰ This is precisely what Congress prohibited.

Even HHS appears to acknowledge that the Final Rule's blanket prenatal referral requirement and the ban on abortion referral may violate medical best practices and ethics. HHS offers as a solution that "[p]roviders could even expressly include a disclaimer that the prenatal-care referral is a general requirement and should not be taken as directing the patient's ultimate decision about her pregnancy."³¹ But asking providers to "disclaim" the care they provide their patients is yet another grave misunderstanding of the ethical requirements providers must abide by when communicating with patients. Providers should never give medically unnecessary referrals to their patients; referrals should always ²⁹ HHS's argument that the Final Rule's prohibition on abortion referrals is not directive pregnancy counseling because the provider is not "directing" the patient to do anything (see HHS's Opening Br. 23-24) is belied by the medical community's understanding of directive counseling. "Directive pregnancy counseling" does not necessarily involve literally directing a patient to perform one particular action. See ACOG, Guidelines for Women's Health Care at 345, 719. The purposeful omission of medically appropriate and patient-requested information is directive. Preventing a provider from offering a patient who seeks to terminate her pregnancy with requested referrals for abortion care constitutes directive pregnancy counseling.

³⁰ AMA, Code of Medical Ethics Opinion 2.1.1 (2016) (clinicians should "present relevant information accurately and sensitively, in keeping with the patient's preferences").

³¹ HHS's Response to Appellee's Emergency Motion for Reconsideration En Banc at 10, ECF No. 36.

be based upon a patient's medical needs.³² By suggesting that providers “disclaim” their patient recommendations, HHS acknowledges that the Final Rule would require providers to give inappropriate care to some patients. Further, the act of providing a referral that is inconsistent with a patient's expressed need and then immediately disclaiming its validity would send mixed signals, confuse the patient, and sow mistrust within the provider-patient relationship. Indeed, Amici have raised concerns about disclaimers in other contexts, fearing that they would lead to patient confusion and be ineffective.³³ HHS's proffered solution that a provider may disclaim the mandated prenatal referral is inconsistent with medical ethical requirements and the functional practice of medicine.³⁴

II. Absent an Injunction, the Final Rule Will Cause Irreparable Harm

The district court found that the Final Rule was likely to violate the law and that the harm was sufficiently grave to warrant a preliminary injunction. Amici, as medical practitioners, write to explain that HHS's unsupported speculation about the effects of the Final Rule is inconsistent with the existing medical landscape. Contrary to HHS's speculation, real-world experience confirms that the Final Rule will cause an immediate and steep decline both in the number of Title X providers

³² ACOG, Code of Professional Ethics at 2; AMA, Code of Ethics Opinion 1.2.3.

³³ See ACOG, Comm. on Ethics, Opinion No. 297: Nonmedical Use of Obstetric Ultrasonography, 104 Obstetrics & Gynecology 423, 423 (2004).

³⁴ AMA, Code of Ethics Opinion 1.2.3 (instructing that referring physicians should “[e]xplain the rationale for the consultation, opinion, or findings and recommendations clearly to the patient”).

and the quality of care they can provide. The Court should affirm the Preliminary Injunction Order, given the nature and magnitude of the immediate harm if the Final Rule were to go into effect.

First, as described supra, the Final Rule's restrictions contravene medical ethics and best practices. When a regulation imposes significant constraints on a medical provider's ability to provide continued quality care for his or her patients, irreparable harm has been demonstrated sufficient to justify a preliminary injunction.³⁵ Here, the Final Rule's restrictions on providers' ability to provide care consistent with best practices and ethical norms warrant a preliminary injunction.

Second, the Final Rule will undermine the patient-provider relationship, which is the cornerstone of ethical medical practice. The Final Rule's restrictions on doctors' communication will likely undermine patients' trust, making patients less likely to turn to medical professionals for other critical care, such as timely cancer screenings or obtaining effective contraceptive care.³⁶

³⁵ See Fairfield Cty. Med. Ass'n v. United Healthcare of New England, 985 F. Supp. 2d 262, 271-72 (D. Conn. 2013), aff'd as modified sub nom. Fairfield Cty. Med. Ass'n v. United Healthcare of New England, Inc., 557 F. App'x 53 (2d Cir. 2014) (finding irreparable injury to physicians where they would suffer "disruption of their relationships with their . . . patients" and noting "several district and circuit courts have found that disruption of the physician-patient relationship can cause irreparable harm... particularly when the patient belongs to a vulnerable class"); State of New York v. Schweiker, 557 F. Supp. 354, 360 (S.D.N.Y. 1983) (HHS regulation requiring physicians to disclose adolescent health information to patients' parents was an irreparable harm because it would deter patients from seeking care and cause physicians to breach their ethical duty to maintain patient confidentiality.").

Third, if the Final Rule is implemented, it will exacerbate the ongoing shortage of providers of necessary medical care. Currently, there is a nationwide shortage of obstetrician-gynecologists.³⁷ This trend is expected to worsen: leading groups predict that by 2030 there will be an 18% nationwide shortage of obstetrician-gynecologists,³⁸ and a shortfall of as many as 55,200 primary care physicians (“PCPs”) and 65,800 non-primary care physicians by 2032.³⁹ The current and projected shortage of family care physicians, a subgroup of PCPs, is particularly dire, as these physicians tend to host more office visits, and are more likely to be located in rural areas, than the other PCP subgroups.⁴⁰ If the Final ³⁶ ACOG, Comm. on Health Care for Underserved Women, Opinion No. 615: Access to Contraception, 125 Obstetrics & Gynecology 250, 251 (2015; reaffirmed 2017); ACOG, Comm. on Adolescent Health Care, Opinion No. 699: Adolescent Pregnancy, Contraception, and Sexual Activity, 129 Obstetrics & Gynecology 142, 143, 146 (2017).

³⁷ See William F. Rayburn, ACOG, The Obstetrician-Gynecologist Workforce in the United States 4, 121 (2017) (half of the counties in the United States already do not have any obstetrician-gynecologists).

³⁸ Id.

³⁹ Tim Dall et al., Complexities of Physician Supply and Demand: Projections from 2017 to 2032 at viii (2019) (“Complexities of Physician Supply”). The United States is expected to need nearly 52,000 additional primary care physicians by 2025. Stephen M. Petterson et al., Projecting US Primary Care Physician Workforce Needs: 2010-2025, 10 Annals Fam. Med. 503, 507 (2012).

⁴⁰ Stephen Petterson et al., Robert Graham Center, The State of Primary Care in the United States: A Chartbook of Facts and Statistics 8, 13 (2018); AAFP, America Needs More Family Doctors: 25x2030, <https://www.aafp.org/about/initiatives/family-doctor-expansion.html> (last visited June 29, 2019); Complexities

Rule goes into effect and practitioners are forced to forego Title X funds in order to comply with medical best practices and ethical duties, these shortages will only worsen. This will cause a clear harm to patients who rely on Title X. Title X is the only federal grant program dedicated exclusively to providing low-income patients with essential family planning and preventive health services and information.⁴¹ Title X provides necessary services, including well-woman exams, breast and cervical cancer screenings, FDA-approved contraceptive methods and counseling services, screening and treatment for sexually transmitted infections, testing for HIV, pregnancy testing and counseling, and other patient education and/or health referrals.⁴²

Contrary to HHS's unsupported speculation, the harmful impacts of the Final Rule will affect millions of lives.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Amici respectfully request that this Court affirm the Preliminary Injunction Order of the lower court.

(Signature page follows)

of Physician Supply at 6. See generally Stephen Petterson et al., Robert Graham Center, The State of Primary Care Physician Workforce (2019).

⁴¹ Christina Fowler et al., Office of Population Affairs, Title X Family Planning Annual Report: 2017 National Summary at ES-1 (Aug. 2018).

⁴² Id.

Date: August 5, 2019

ROPES & GRAY LLP

Lisa H. Bebchick
Catherine J. Djang
Amy W. Malone
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1211 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036-8704
(212) 596-9000
lisa.bebchick@ropesgray.com
catherine.djang@ropesgray.com
amy.malone@ropesgray.com

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Thomas N. Bulleit
Andrew J. Sutton
ROPES & GRAY LLP
2099 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20006
(202) 508-4600
douglas.hallward-driemeier@ropesgray.com
tom.bulleit@ropesgray.com
andrew.sutton@ropesgray.com

Daniel W. Richards
ROPES & GRAY LLP
1900 University Avenue, 6th Floor
East Palo Alto, CA 94303
(650) 617-4000
daniel.richards@ropesgray.com

Haley Eagon
ROPES & GRAY LLP
Prudential Tower
800 Boylston Street
Boston, MA 02199-3600
(617) 951-7000
haley.eagon@ropesgray.com

*Counsel to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Physicians, Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine, and Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine
as Amici Curiae*

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE

Pursuant to Fed. R. App. P. 29, I certify that:

This brief complies with the type-volume limitation of Fed. R. App. P. 29 (a)(5), 32(a)(7)(b), and Local Rule 32(b) because this brief contains 4,887 words, excluding the parts of the brief exempted by Fed. R. App. P. 32(f).

This brief complies with the typeface requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5) and the type style requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(6) because this brief has been prepared in a proportionately spaced typeface using Microsoft Word 2016 Times New Roman 14-point font.

Date: August 5, 2019

Ropes & Gray LLP

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier
Douglas Hallward-Driemeier

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

On August 5, 2019, the undersigned caused the foregoing document to be filed electronically by using the Court's CM/ECF system. All parties are represented by registered CM/ECF users and will be served by the appellate CM/ECF system.

Ropes & Gray LLP

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier

Douglas Hallward-Driemeier

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT
APPEARANCE OF COUNSEL FORM

BAR ADMISSION & ECF REGISTRATION: If you have not been admitted to practice before the Fourth Circuit, you must complete and return an Application for Admission before filing this form. If you were admitted to practice under a different name than you are now using, you must include your former name when completing this form so that we can locate you on the attorney roll. Electronic filing by counsel is required in all Fourth Circuit cases. If you have not registered as a Fourth Circuit ECF Filer, please complete the required steps at Register for eFiling.

THE CLERK WILL ENTER MY APPEARANCE IN APPEAL NO. 19-1614 as

Retained Court-appointed(CJA) Court-assigned(non-CJA) Federal Defender Pro Bono Government

COUNSEL FOR: American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Physicians, Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine, and Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine as the (party name)

appellant(s) appellee(s) petitioner(s) respondent(s) amicus curiae intervenor(s) movant(s)

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier (signature)

Please compare your information below with your information on PACER. Any updates or changes must be made through PACER's Manage My Account.

Douglas Hallward-Driemeier Name (printed or typed)

202-508-4776 Voice Phone

Ropes & Gray LLP Firm Name (if applicable)

202-383-8354 Fax Number

2099 Pennsylvania Ave. NW

Washington, DC 20006 Address

douglas.hallward-driemeier@ropesgray.com E-mail address (print or type)

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that on 8/5/2019 the foregoing document was served on all parties or their counsel of record through the CM/ECF system if they are registered users or, if they are not, by serving a true and correct copy at the addresses listed below:

Empty rectangular box for address information.

Empty rectangular box for address information.

/s/ Douglas Hallward-Driemeier Signature

8/5/2019 Date